

About Singapore Economic Review

The Singapore Economic Review (SER) is a quarterly journal devoted to the publication of high quality theoretical and empirical papers on all aspects of economics, with a special emphasis on the Asian region. It was founded in 1956 as the Malayan Economic Review and is one of the oldest economics journal in Asia. Being a peer-reviewed journal, SER has always adhered to a stringent review process and international editorial conventions. Reflecting the high academic standards upheld by the journal, SER is held in high esteem. Its editorial board is made up of prominent scholars with different areas of specializations from across the world.

SER is published by Singapore-based World Scientific, one of the world's premier scientific publishers with a large stable of social science journals in its fold. The Journal has a wide international circulation — among the many subscribers are the libraries of Harvard University, Stanford University, University of Cambridge, University of Oxford and the London School of Economics. Indeed, with the journal's inclusion in WorldSciNet, the publisher's portal for online journals, accessibility has improved greatly. Download statistics show that SER articles are popular with international subscribers. The journal is included in EconLit and ISI Web of Knowledge and is also abstracted in the Social Sciences Citation Index (SCCI).

SER publishes scholarly work of contemporary interest on all the fields of economic science. Apart from economic theory, economics and public policy, developmental, health and environmental issues, the journal places special importance on the Asian economies and in particular, the rise of China and the economic resurgence of India. Each issue includes invited papers by eminent economists and book reviews. In addition, special issues that focus on specific themes have been warmly received by the Journal's readers.

The number of paper submissions to the SER has risen significantly in the last few years, being close to 233 in 2013. Authors sending papers to SER are internationally diverse and come from nearly 40 countries. Amongst the numerous eminent economists who have published in SER are the late Sir John Hicks, Sydney Caine, the late Harry G. Johnson, Ragnar Nurkse, H.W. Singer, W M Corden Herbert Grubel, J C H Fei, G Ranis, Heinz Arndt and H.T. Oshima. More recently, Henry Wan (Cornell University), Jerome L. Stein (Brown University), Yew Kwang Ng (Monash University), Jack L. Knetsch (Simon Fraser University), Karl Shell (Cornell University), Peter Robinson (London School of Economics), Ronald W. Jones (University of Rochester), Cheng Hsiao (University of Southern California), Edward Lazear (Stanford University), and Ronald McKinnon (Stanford University) have joined their illustrious predecessors in contributing articles to the journal.

On the seminar front, the Journal has also been active. It organises the SER Conference once every two years, with the inaugural conference being held in 2005. Nobel Laureates Edward Prescott and Joseph Stiglitz and Edward Lazear (University of Stanford and Former chief economic advisor to President George W. Bush) have served as the keynote speakers in the last five conferences. The conferences are attended by over 350 participants from 40 nations, some of whom are internationally prominent economists and journal editors. The Journal also has a SER Public Lecture Series with eminent speakers such as Sir James Mirrlees (Nobel Laureate in Economics, 1996), David Greenaway (Pro-Vice Chancellor and In-Coming President of the University of Nottingham), John Whalley (University of Western Ontario), Arye Hillman (University of Bar-Ilan), Robert Klitgaard (President of Claremont Graduate University), Bradford DeLong (University of California), Fred Singer (University of Virginia), Danny Quah (London School of Economics), Andrew Oswald (University of Warwick) and Ravi Kanbur (Cornell University).